

It would better fit my driving style if the route was on the road and not on the bike path.

I think it is important to be able to personalize my bike type, route preference, and ascent.

