

The routes calculated by the app fit well with the paths I normally take

It would better fit my driving style if the route was on the road and not on the bike path

